NUMB. 4400

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 9. 1743.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from Holland, and another from Flanders.

Petersbourg, Feb. 26.

COLONEL Crapp arriv'd here Yesterday from Berlin with the Order of the Black Eagle, which the King of Prussia sends to her Imperial Majesty; the Collar is the best wrought Piece that ever was seen, and the Jewel is said to be worth 12,000 l. The Reason of the Shah Nadir's sudden Retreat was that his Army mutiny'd; and some others say, an Attempt has been made upon his Life.

Commissionaries at Abo have Orders not to consent to a Cessation of Arms, unless the Bishop of Lubec was declared Successor to the Crown of Sweden. Here is a strange Fraud broke out in the Customs, upon which the Imperial Majesty has order'd an extraordinary Commission of Enquiry to be issued out.

Stockholm, Feb. 26. His Majesty has been pleas'd to declare to the States, that in case the War be not speedily termin'd, he will put himself at the Head of the Army, in order to enter Finland as soon as the Season will permit. It is suspected that a private Negotiation is carrying on for raising the Bishop of Lubec to this Throne; in which Case, a Peace will be speedily made with Russia, under the Mediation of the Crown of Great Britain.

Vienno, Feb. 27. Her Majesty is far from relishing the Propositions made by the Emperor for the Conclusion of Peace; but it is said, that some private Negotiations are carrying on at Frankfort, which it is hoped will terminate better.

Majricht, March 11. His Excellency the Earl of Stair, who left this Place on the 27th of last Month, arriv'd the same Evening at Aix la Chapelle by Torch Light. His Excellency is said to be somewhat indispos'd with a Cold.

Leuwarden, March 12. The young Princess of Orange was baptiz'd on the 10th by the Name of Carolina; the Sponsors were the King of Great Britain, the Queen of Prussia, and the Princess Dowager of Orange.

Extract from a Private Letter.

Paris, March 11. It is very apparent since the Death of Cardinal Fleury, that the Spanish Faction is daily gaining Ground. The Prince of Campo Florido openly inveighs against his Eminency's Measures; he says, they were either timorous, or insincere. That after the Commencement of the present War, he ought to have sent a Body of Auxiliaries to the Assistance of Don Philip, as well as he did to the Emperor. That the Want of such Assistance has render'd that doubtful which otherwise had been certain, and at the same time served no Purpose in the World, since the Judgment and Intention of France was as well known to the rest of Europe, as if she had actually taken this Step. That the Duke de Montemar was the Dupe of the Cardinal's Profession of Affection to his Catholic Majesty's Family, inasmuch as he steadily refused to embark in the Italian Expedition till he was perswaded of the Cardinal's Resolution to promote that Design; and as soon as he understood the French Court was determin'd not to join her Forces to those of Spain, he acted wholly on the Defensive.

The same Minister uses the utmost Endeavour to induce the Court to send 20,000 Men into Dauphine, in order to be ready to enter Savoy, as soon as the Season (which is very rigorous at present) will allow the Intention to renew the Operations he intends against Piedmont. He takes Abundance of Pains to prove, on the one hand, that this Measure must be infallibly attended with Success; and, on the other, that Don Philip's being driven a second Time out of Savoy, must be nearly as fatal to France as Spain; since it would strengthen the growing Confederacy exceedingly, and at the same time compel his Catholic Majesty to make a separate Peace, and accept such Offers as have been already made him, in case he would quit his Engagements with his Nephew, and enter into other Views. The latter Part of his Remonstrances meets with little Credit, since it is impossible that any of the European Powers should incline to establish a Son-in-law of France in Italy, on a Presumption that this would detach him from the general Interests of his House; but the former Considerations, it is said, have some Weight.

We have lately talked pretty confidently of the Dauphin's marrying the Infanta Donna Maria Teresa, born June 11, 1726. and who is, consequently, three Years older than our Prince. This Alliance would undoubtedly create a closer Conjunction between the Courts than ever; and for this very Reason some good Frenchmen are in their own Sentiments, tho' perhaps they dare not avow it, against this Marriage. They apprehend that the closer our Union with Spain the more we must be divided from the rest of Europe, and the readier we must be to support all the wild Schemes of this projecting Power, which have hitherto turned very little to their, and much less to our Advantage. They observe, that a Union of the same Nature produced the Ruin of the Austrian Family, by keeping up a perpetual Jealousy in all the other Powers, and thereby combining them in constant Leagues to the Prejudice of that August House; whereas either the Imperial or Spanish Branch, but for this Opposition, might have become more potent than both by this Conjunction. Some fancy the Schemes of our new Cardinal Minister are likely soon to discover themselves. He confers duly with the King and his Ministers on certain Days, but has been so taken up with some Agent from an Italian Court, that, except the Time spent in those Conferences, he is seldom visible.

WHEREAS many Seamen have from time to time inconsiderately deserted his Majesty's Service, by leaving the Ships they belong'd to, as they could find Opportunities for so doing, for which Crime they have incurred the Loss of their Wages; and are punishable with Death by a Court Martial; but my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty being willing to impute such Desertion to a Rashness which most of them soon repent of, and would return to their Ships, but that they are terrified therefrom by their Apprehensions of Punishment; and their Lordships, in order to encourage them to return to their Duty, being inclined to show them so much Indulgence as to remove such Apprehensions, do hereby declare, That such of the said Men who return on board the Ships to which they did belong, on or before the Second Day of next Month; or, in case those Ships are gone abroad, if they go on board some other of his Majesty's Ships, they shall not be punished in any Manner whatsoever, on account of the Crime they have committed, in withdrawing themselves from his Majesty's Service, excepting such as have been guilty of Mutiny, or any other notorious Crimes: And as a further Encouragement to them, their Lordships are pleas'd moreover to declare, That such as shall so return, shall have their R<sup>s</sup> taken off, and be paid their Wages for the Ships from which they run. But their Lordships do also think fit to declare, That if any of the Men who have deserted as aforesaid, do not make a proper Use of the Indulgence hereby offered them, by returning to his Majesty's Service within the Time above-mentioned, they must expect to be strictly sought after, and in case they are apprehended, be brought to a Court Martial, and treated as the Law directs.

Tho. Corbett.

Admiralty-Office, March 5, 1742.

WHEREAS several Seamen belonging to his Majesty's Ship the Sterling Castle, at Spithead, have taken the Liberty to absent themselves from their Duty without Leave, and the said Ship being soon to proceed to Sea, the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty do strictly charge the said Men to return immediately to their Duty on board the said Ship, on pain not only of losing their Wages, but of being apprehended and tried at a Court Martial as Deserters, in case they neglect so to do.

Tho. Corbett.

Admiralty-Office, March 5, 1742.

THE Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty having ordered the Petty Officers and Foremast Men belonging to the Winchester, lately arriv'd from the Mediterranean, to be turned over, Half into the Augusta, sitting at Chatham, and the other Half into the Torrington, sitting at Portsmouth, in which Ships they will be paid their Wages for the Winchester, and Two Months Wages Advance before they proceed to Sea; And the Leave of Absence given to the said Men expiring on the 13th instant, their Lordships do strictly charge them at the Expiration of that Time, to repair forthwith on board the said Ships Augusta and Torrington accordingly, on Pain, in case they fail to do so, of not only losing the aforementioned Payments, but also of being Apprehended and Tried at a Court Martial as Deserters. If the said Men apply to the Navy Board, they will be allowed Conduct Money, and Carriage for their Chests and Bedding to Chatham and Portsmouth; but if any of those who are to repair to Chatham, chuse to go down in the Tender which will be appointed to carry their Chests and Bedding, rather than to travel by Land, the Navy Board will cause them to be received on board such Tender, and carried to their Ship at Chatham.

Thomas Corbett.

Admiralty Office, March 7, 1742.

WHEREAS the Leave of Absence given to the Petty Officers and Foremastmen belonging to his Majesty's Ship the Mary Galley, expires on the 25th of this Month, it is the Direction of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that the said Petty Officers and Foremastmen (notwithstanding the Orders they have received to go on board the Princess Royal at the Nore) do repair on board his Majesty's Ship the Jersey at Plymouth, where they will be paid the Remainder of the Wages due to them in the Mary Galley, and Two Months Wages advance, before they proceed to Sea; but if any of the said Men fail to go on board the Jersey, they will not only lose the aforesaid Payments, but be taken up, and tried at a Court Martial as Deserters.

AS all our Old Plays, except Shakspeare's Johnson's, and Beaumont and Fletcher's, are becoming scarce, and extravagantly dear, I propose, if I can procure 200 Subscribers, to select from such of our old Dramatic Writers, as are of any considerable Reputation, about Forty or Fifty Plays, and print them in a handsome Manner, in Pocket Volumes, at so cheap a Rate, that they shall not exceed Sixpence each Play. I shall take only One or Two of the Best from each Author, as a Specimen of their Manner, and to shew the Humour of their Times. There are also many single Plays well worth preserving; such as the Gambler of Lord Buckhurst, the MARRIAGE-NIGHT of Lord Falkland, and some others.
 In making this Collection, I shall not rely on my own Opinion, but consult the most judicious of my Friends, who have promis'd me their best Assistance in this Work. And, that those as are willing to encourage it may not run any Hazard, I do fire no Money but upon the Delivery of the Book.
